In 1635 (?) and 1637, two volumes of Calderon's works were published by his brother Joseph. The second is in this set; the first, although lettered with the date 1637, as if it were the first volume of that edition, is not so. The contents of a genuine first volume, as given in Barrera, do not agree with this copy. In regard to the date of publication of the genuine first volume, authorities differ. Alvarez y Baena and others state that it did not come from the press until 1640. The Aprobacion and Licencia are dated November 6 and 10, 1635. The first volume in this set is apparently made up of various plays that appeared singly, or in collections, without Calderon's approval. See the note on page 53.

"A considerable number of the plays in this [first] volume being, however, of editions published in the seventeenth century, are valuable. Both volumes are from the Colonna library in Rome. This [second] volume, published by Calderon's brother above forty years before Calderon's death, is very rare and important."
